

CHAPTER 4 – FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

The Buy Zone is so simple that many people have a hard time understanding the rules. They try to “think”. If the rules don’t say to do something, then don’t do it – IT’S THAT SIMPLE!

Q. Do I have to wait for the candle to close to enter the trade?

A. NO. Nowhere in the Buy Zone rules does it say to wait for the candle to close to enter the trade.

Q. Do I use a market order to enter the trade?

A. NO. Use a limit order. Open + 4 pips to buy. Open – 4 pips to sell short. NEVER USE A MARKET ORDER. Market orders are used when you are PANICKING!! If you want to enter or exit a position so badly you don’t care what the price is that is when you use a market order.

Q. What other indicator(s) should I use on my chart?

A. NONE. Nowhere in the Buy Zone rules does it say to use other indicators. You don’t need any other indicators.

Q. Why is the Stop Loss 5 – 7 pips?

A. Michal Kreslik and I ran statistics for all the major pairs and the result was if a trade goes against you 7 pips, you will have to wait a long time for the price to return. Also, the Buy Zone is 8 pips wide. If you enter at the trigger line and the trade goes against you. You should be reversing your position shortly!

Q. Where do I get the BUY ZONE FOR DUMMIES INDICATOR?

A. The BUY ZONE FOR DUMMIES INDICATOR along with some other indicators are sent to people who have made a donation to therumpledone@gmail.com PayPal account as a "thank you" for their support.

Q. Can I trade other methods along with the Buy Zone?

A. "BEWARE THE MAN WITH ONE GUN... HE PRACTICES WITH IT!"

Q. Why does the Buy Zone work?

A. The Buy Zone is a statistically calculated system that is designed to take advantage of the trading range of the instrument being traded. For example, as of January 17, 2008, the GBPUSD has an average hourly range of 31 pips over the last 960 hours. The Buy Zone is 8 pips wide. You can't fit 31 into 8. The range has to stick out of at least one side. So, if you enter at the trigger line, you have the statistical edge of making a profit... IT IS THAT SIMPLE!

Q. Is this a "scam"? I have read that you are a "scammer" on the internet.

A. NO... LOL! How can this be a scam when I have given away the manual and the Buy Zone indicator for free? How would I personally gain? For it to be a "scam", I would have to gain something. I think I figured out why people say things like that. Perhaps they spent hundreds or thousands of dollars on a system that only produced losses. Maybe they went to a high priced seminar and their account blew out. Maybe they have some system or indicators they are selling. They are upset at Buy Zone traders' success, so they spread lies, rumors and make false accusations.

Q. Why did you get banned from TradeStation, eSignal, ForexFactory and other forums.

A. Those are all VENDOR forums. Vendors don't like me because they see me as a threat. I give away lots of indicators. If people use my free indicators then they don't buy the vendor's indicators. I have made them look bad by creating systems, indicators and displays they couldn't and/or didn't think of. Whenever they do something stupid, I post about it so the world can see. I believe that the internet should be about FREELY SHARING INFORMATION. Vendor forums restrict the free flow of information. Vendor forums consider you SHEEP and see themselves as sheppards. To them, TheRumpledOne is the BIG BAD WOLF!

CHAPTER 5 – MY QUESTION TO YOU

Let's say that I showed you a "secret machine" and I told you to put a dollar in it and the "secret machine" returned you two dollars. I told you that you could come back every day and use the machine. You would probably do it, right?

Let's say, that you do it. You do it every day for a week and each time it gave you back two dollars. You do it every day for a month and each time it gave you back two dollars. You do this faithfully every day for six months.

One day you go to the machine and there's another machine sitting right next to it. My question to you is:

"DO YOU STICK WITH THE MACHINE YOU KNOW RETURNS MONEY OR DO YOU TRY OUT THE OTHER MACHINE?"

You would be so tempted to try that other machine, wouldn't you? Perhaps it returns three dollars. Maybe it will return five, twenty, a hundred or thousands of dollars. How will you know if you don't at least try it?

Do you really need to try it or is curiosity eating away at you? Can you just stick with what you know works or can you be tempted away? Are you focused on what works or does the promise of greater rewards tempt you?

